The mother of Paddington stays with her two children and her brother in a wooden hut. Paddington's father is mentally ill. He stays with his own parents in the rural areas.

Paddington has an eleven year old sister. She attends a school in Mutare town. Her grandfather pays school fees for her. The mother earns some money by selling second hand shoes.

In the hut, there is only one room, which is separated with a cloth that hangs from the ceiling. The one part serves as bedroom. The other one as the living area. It is cooked outside over a fire. There is also a small garden, where some vegetables are grown.

The room for the plum toilet is also made of wooden planks.

There is no electricity or water connection in the hut. The mother told us, that they ask for water in the surrounding houses. In most cases, they negotiate to use water for one month for about 5 dollar.

Paddington's mother has heard from Buckley's mother, that scholarships are granted in our crèche. She was also telling that the education is very good.
